

Crude oil market continues to firm up as stockpile tightened

economy 09 Feb 2021

The international crude oil benchmark continued to rise on 8 February 2021 on the back of tightening stockpile and improving demand outlook.

The international crude oil benchmark continued to rise on 8 February 2021 on the back of tightening stockpile and improving demand outlook amid the global rollout of COVID-19 vaccines.

Brent crude gained $1.22 or 2.01% to $60.56/barrel. This is the first time Brent hit above the $60/barrel threshold in a year.

WTI crude jumped $1.12 higher or 1.93% to $57.97/barrel.